THE JEWISH FEDERATION OF GREATER WASHINGTON

CASE STUDY

CHALLENGE:

The Jewish Federation of Greater Washington is a prominent non-profit organization dedicated to serving the Jewish community. The Federation owns an 81,652 square foot office building in Rockville, MD. Committed to inclusivity, the Federation houses anchor tenants like Café Sunflower, a company advocating for the rights of individuals with disabilities, Momentum, a women's empowerment corporation, and the General Services Administration (GSA). In 2022, the Federation sought a change in management, engaging Scheer Partners to oversee their Rockville headquarters. During a comprehensive lease audit, Scheer uncovered a backlog of outstanding tenant accounts due to delayed billings and collection efforts. Notably, the General Services Administration (GSA) had accrued over $100,000 in outstanding utility bills spanning more than two years.

ACTION:

Scheer Partners engaged the previous management company and GSA staff respectfully to gather comprehensive historical data to determine the exact amount owed by the end user. Through extensive analysis, our accounting team reconciled the actual debt to exceed a quarter of a million dollars. Leveraging our robust analytical skills, knowledge of government lease evaluation, and stringent collection practices, the Scheer team submitted over 50 invoices through the Invoice Processing Platform (IPP), a secure, web-based service managing government invoicing from purchase order to payment notification. Throughout the process, Scheer's managers remained vigilant and maintained continuous communication with the Federation's CFO, meticulously tracking each payment received until the balance was fully settled.

RESULTS:

- Established a productive working relationship with the GSA.
- Successfully reconciled The Jewish Federation's accounting records and files.
- Implemented protocols to ensure timely identification and tracking of significant delinquencies.
- Set a precedent for efficient resolution.
- Reduced the total delinquency by 27%.
- Total amount collected: $308,225.41.

Jewish Federation of Greater Washington is thrilled to provide a recommendation for Scheer Partners Management. Scheer provides property management and engineering services for the Jewish Federation of Greater Washington located at 6101 Executive Blvd, Rockville, MD. Over the past year, they have demonstrated an exceptional level of commitment and expertise that has significantly improved our property's overall condition. After enduring years of subpar management and engineering services, Scheer Partners Management stepped in and transformed our property into a well-maintained and efficiently run establishment.
